1. The Chairman, welcoming the U.S. Delegates, said that this was a happy moment for the London Sigint Board and for all the other friends of the U.S. Delegates. He hoped that those Delegates who had been here before would be happy to be back and that those who were making their first visit would make new friends and wish to return.

2. The present moment, he continued, was one in which it was difficult to exaggerate the seriousness of the situation. Consequently the tasks confronting the Conference were urgent.

3. The Chairman then stressed the importance of the U.S. - British Communication Intelligence Agreement both in ensuring cooperation in the Sigint field and in its effect in cementing the relations between the two countries generally.

The Chairman assured the U.S. Delegates that the London Sigint Board would at all times do its utmost to carry out the letter and spirit of the Agreement. If mistakes should inadvertently occur, he hoped that STANCLIB would not hesitate to point them out immediately to the London Sigint Board as he could assure the U.S. delegation that they would be unintended and the earlier they were pointed out the better.

4. He said that the policy governing the cooperation of the two countries in the field of Communication Intelligence had been settled by the Agreement and that the present Conference was therefore entirely technical in its objects.

5. Its first object was to implement the Agreement. We had to ensure that both sides obtained the maximum results from the available peacetime staffs as they would necessarily be limited. It was hoped that we could achieve this object by a suitable division of labour and by avoiding duplication.

6. The Chairman next turned to the Security aspect of Communication Intelligence work, and said that its importance could not be exaggerated. Lessons had been learned in both countries and he was certain that, on both sides of the Atlantic, every effort would be made to resist the pressure to divulge our information. He hoped that the U.S. and British authorities responsible for the maintenance of security would be able to help each other in resisting this pressure.

7. Referring to the Commonwealth Conference just concluded, the Chairman reported that this had been highly successful. The terms of the U.S. - British Communication Intelligence agreement had been explained to the Dominion Representatives, in so far as they were affected, and had been accepted by them. The Dominions had also agreed to abide by Joint Security Regulations to be issued from London after they had been agreed between STANCIB and the London Sigint Board. Copies of the final recommendations of the Commonwealth Conference were available for the U.S. Delegates, but the Chairman pointed out that they were still subject to ratification by the Dominion Governments concerned.

8. General Corderman expressed the gratitude of the U.S. Delegation for the cordial reception they had received and said that STANCIB also considered the U.S. British Communication Intelligence Agreement to be of very great importance.

9. He added that STANCIB considered it to be a point of special importance that effective communications should be available, as without them our ability to collaborate will be greatly limited and duplication could not be avoided. This referred both to communications between Centres and between the Centre and the interception stations.

10. On behalf of STANCIB, he assured the meeting that every effort would be made to implement the U.S.- British Agreement and reiterated the Chairman's point that, if it appeared that the U.S.A. was failing to do so, it would be due to some oversight to which it was hoped that the British would immediately draw the attention of STANCIB.

11. He next mentioned the Security question and stated that STANCIB was fully aware of its overriding importance.

12. Captain Wenger stated that General Corderman, as the head of the U.S. Delegation, had fully expressed the point of view of the U.S. Navy who felt that war time collaboration with the British had been successful and beneficial to both parties.

13. The Chairman supported General Corderman's remarks, stressing once again the importance of communications, and suggested that he and General Corderman should discuss certain Security points separately at a later date.

14. The Chairman then invited General Corderman to be the Chairman of the Conference. General Corderman said he much appreciated the honour afforded to him and the U.S. Delegation by the suggestion, but he felt that a British Chairman would be more suitable, as he would be more familiar with whatever procedure would be adopted for the Conference. He would therefore prefer to decline the offer. The Chairman therefore suggested that Captain Hastings should take the Chair and this was seconded by General Corderman.

15. Sir Edward Travis suggested that the next meeting should take place at 1015 on Tuesday, 12th March, and this was agreed.

16. The Chairman, in conclusion, said that he was confident that a great deal will be accomplished in the next fortnight and that the conference would mark an important milestone in Sigint collaboration between the two countries.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

1. No amendment was made to the membership of the Executive Committee, as listed in the Agenda for the Meeting.

2. It was later decided that the general problem of liaison would be the responsibility of the Executive Committee. All Subcommittees would be instructed to present their recommendations on this subject to the Executive Committee for consideration.

CO-OPPING OF MEMBERS TO EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE AND TO SUB-COMMITTEES.

3. Sir Edward Travis suggested that the Executive Committee and the Sub-Committees should be free to co-opt additional members as needed. This was agreed.

SUB COMMITTEE "A".

4. The Membership and Agenda were agreed as presented.

SUB COMMITTEE "B".

5. General Gorderman questioned the sense of item 2 of the Agenda and after some discussion it was agreed to amend this to read:

" (2) Statement of general principles and priorities of collaboration."

TOP SECRET CREA

SUB COMMITTEE "C".

6. General Gorderman requested that Major Stone be added to the permanent membership of this Sub-Committee and this was agreed.

7. On the assumption that exchanges to be considered by this Sub-Committee were technical only, Captain Snedberg asked to be released from permanent membership. His assumption was confirmed and his request agreed. Captain Goodwin undertook to ensure that he be called in when necessary.

8. At the later Meeting of the Executive Committee with Sub-Committee "C" Captain Wenger said that it was essential that the nature of the Intelligence to be discussed by this Sub-Committee should be closely defined. The Chairman said that the British practice was to make no Intelligence appreciations for outside circulation but that such appreciations were undertaken for internal use. He considered that, if U.S. practice was the same, an exchange of appreciations made for internal use should be effected. Sir Edward Travis added that the responsibility for Intelligence appreciation belonged to the Ministries in the U.K. and that therefore the exchange of appreciations for internal use could only take place if their circulation were limited to the Signal Intelligence agencies. General Gorderman and Captain Snedberg agreed to these remarks stating that U.S. practice was identical. Captain Wenger therefore asked what was meant by reports. Sir Edward Travis replied that summaries were intended and after further discussion it was agreed that item 2 of the Agenda should be altered to read:

"Exchange of original texts, translations, comments and summaries, individual or collective, based on Sigint alone."

Sir Edward Travis added that one of the objects of the Sub-Committee should be to decide what material should be exchanged, as it was desirable to avoid unnecessary exchange while at the same time ensuring that each side received all it required. He hoped all agencies would be quick to say when material was unnecessary.

SUB COMMITTEE "D".

9. The Membership was agreed, as presented.

10. The nature and Agenda of this Sub-Committee, however, evoked general discussion. The sense of para 2 of the Agenda was questioned by Mr. Hurdleson, and after some exchange of views it was agreed that all dissemination problems would be covered by item 1, provided the phraseology of this item was suitably changed. Item 1 was therefore changed to read:

"Establishment of joint U.S. - British Security Principles."

Item 2 was then deleted.

TOP SECRET CREAM

SUB COMMITTEE "E".

11. The membership was agreed, as presented.

12. General Cordarman questioned whether the scope of this Sub-Committee was limited to the discussion of Communications between the Centre. Sir Edward Travis replied that the intention was that all categories of Signal communications should be considered.

13. At Captain Howth's suggestion, para 3 of the Agenda was modified to read:

"Telecommunications available and required" and para 4 was thereupon deleted.

14. At Captain (S) Wilson's request a new para 4 was added to read:

"Cryptographic Aids."

FIRST MEETINGS OF SUB-COMMITTEES.

15. It was decided that:

"A" would meet at 1100 13th March,

"B" " " " 1430 12th March,

"C" " " " 1430 " "

"D" " " " 1500 " "

"E" " " " 1150 " "

Tuesday, 12th March

Chairman of Executive Committee
 Chairman, Sub-Committee A.

 " " C.
 " " D.
 " " E.
 Secretaries, Executive Committee.

1. Attached is the confirmed statement of the membership of the Executive Committee and of the membership and Agenda of the Sub-Committees, resulting from this morning's plenary meeting.

2. Liaison.

Requirements regarding liaison should be considered by each sub-committee in connection with its agenda and recommendations on this subject should form a separate report to be forwarded to the Executive Committee.

3. Standardisation.

Requirements regarding standardisation of nomenclature and procedure should be considered by each sub-committee in connection with its agenda and recommendations on this subject should be included in reports forwarded to the Executive Committee.

4. Reports required by the Executive Committee

Minutes of each sub-committee meeting previously approved by the Chairman should be forwarded by the Secretary concerned to the Secretaries of the Executive Committee, if necessary in draft form. If in draft form they should be received in time to be typed by the Secretariat by noon of the day after the meeting in question. If typed before handing in to the Secretaries of the Executive Committee, 6 copies should be handed in.

5. When full minutes cannot be prepared in time, a brief progress report should be submitted.

6. In addition to the above interim reports, a final report will be required from each sub-committee. Final reports from sub-committees should be framed as recommendations to the Executive Committee in such a form that they can be included as agreed appendices to the U.S. British Communications Intelligence Agreement. Sub-committees should also forward if necessary, reports covering any subjects on their agenda which need special consideration by either STAMGIB or the London Sigint Board but which would not be suitable as appendices to the Agreement.

7. Arrangements for Sub-Committee Meetings.

The Secretary of each sub-committee should keep the Secretariat informed in advance of arrangements for meetings, in order that rooms may be allotted and conflicts in personal schedules avoided.

CONFIRMED
MINUTES OF FIRST MEETING OF
EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

held a.m. Tuesday, 12th March, 1946

P R E S E N T:

	Captain E. Hasings
	Chairman
Brigadier General Gorderman		Sir Edward Travis
Captain Wenger		Commander Loehnle
Captain Smedburg
Colonel Heckemeyer
Mr. Huddleson.
	Secretaries
	Commander G.O. Manson
	Mr. F.H. Hinsley.

Procedure to be adopted by Sub-Committees.

1. The Chairman asked for views on this matter.
2. General Gorderman suggested that each sub-committee should present an oral or written report to the Executive Committee at least every other day.
3. After discussion this proposal was modified and it was agreed that the Secretaries should issue the necessary instructions. (See attached sheet of instructions to Sub-Committees.)

Completion date

4. Captain Wenger asked whether the Committee should set a target date for the end of the Conference.
5. After some discussion, it was agreed to discuss this matter further on Friday, but meanwhile to consider that roughly two weeks would be taken.

Format of Reports from Sub-Committees.

6. It was agreed that final reports from the sub-committees should be in the form of recommendations to the Executive Committee which should be so drafted as to be easily transformed into appendices to the basic Agreement.
7. Sir Edward Travis pointed out that not all the results of the discussions would necessarily be suitable for inclusion in the basic Agreement as Appendices and that, in any case, he would like to have a report drawn up for the consideration of the London Signal Board apart from any Appendices that were written.

8. It was agreed that instructions should be issued to the Chairman of the sub-committees on these lines forthwith.

Next Meeting

9. It was agreed that the Executive Committee should meet next at 1500, Thursday 14th March, in the Main Committee Room.

CONFIRMED
MINUTES OF SECOND MEETING OF
EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE, HELD
AT 1500, MARCH 14TH, 1946

EXECUTIVE

P R E S E N T:

Captain E.C. Hastings.	(Chairman)
Brigadier General Cordeman.	Sir Edward Travis
Captain Wenger.	Brigadier Tiltman.
Captain Snodberg.	Commander Lochrie.
Colonel Henkemyer.
Mr. Huddleson.
Mr. Cimperman.	(Secretaries)
	Commander Hanson.
	Mr. Hinkley.

The Chairman opened the meeting by bringing up for discussion the question of Mr. Cimperman's membership in the U.S. Delegation to the Conference. Mr. Cimperman's bona fides were vouched for by General Cordeman, who referred to instructions from the Chairman, STANCIB that Mr. Cimperman was to be regarded as the F.B.I. delegate. There followed some debate as to whether he should attend the meeting then in progress (he was waiting in the outer lobby) or be first introduced all round and come to the following meeting. Also, the question was raised as to whether he be admitted as a voting member or an observer, and whether he had signed the ULTRA oath. It was finally agreed that he be admitted without delay as a full-fledged voting member. (Gen. Cordeman brought Mr. Cimperman in and introduced him to all members).

The Chairman welcomed Mr. Cimperman.

2. The Chairman then tabled the minutes of the First Executive Meeting and opened discussion.

Sir Edward Travis, with reference to para. 7, asked that the phrase "and STANCIB" be deleted, inasmuch as he did not include STANCIB in his original remark and did not intend to speak for the U.S. on this point. It was agreed to delete the phrase.

(There was then some discussion as to the distribution of approved minutes of Sub-Committees; it was agreed to circulate them to all Chairmen).

The Minutes of the First Executive Committee meeting were then passed without further modification.

3. The Chairman then objected to the short interval between the receipt of Sub-Committee minutes and the next following meeting of the Executive Committee. The interval on this particular day, from noon to 1500, was altogether too brief and had prevented a proper reading and understanding by the members of the Executive Committee.

It was eventually agreed that the interval should be extended to about twenty hours; that is, that minutes and other reports be distributed at 1200, for example, for tabling the next day at 1000. It was also agreed that morning meetings might facilitate this program.

4. With the concurrence of all the members, the Chairman then began to read out the minutes of the First Meeting of Sub-Committee B.

General discussion broke out over the subject of covernames, with Sir Edward Travis stating that adoption of the suggested U.S. section covernames would make many difficulties both within his organization and in his dealings with the London SIGINT Board.

The Chairman read out a special note on this subject which had been sent in by the Chairman of Sub-Committee B.

Sir Edward objected that the covernames would not fit in with the four geographical divisions of his post-war organization, and that, anyway, covernames were too readily subject to misuse through inconsistency. General Cordeman replied that the point and purpose of covernames lay in universal application; unless consistently used, they failed to cover anything. He came out strongly in favour of covernames, nevertheless, and added that, if the present suggestions were unacceptable, he would be most eager to listen to some British counter-suggestion which might be adopted by the U.S. He said that neither previous inconsistency in the use of covernames nor the fact that the present suggestions clashed with the four geographical divisions mentioned by Sir Edward should be permitted to rule out the desirability of both sides getting together on this point to see whether the organization of the U.S. and British agencies could be brought 100% into line.

Here the Chairman intervened to recommend postponement of the discussion to some later date. This was agreed, and it was arranged that separate discussion should take place between General Cordeman and Sir Edward and Captain Wenger.

The Chairman resumed his reading of the minutes of Sub-Committee B. There was some bewilderment expressed over the phrasing of certain paragraphs, especially paras. 2 and 3. It was agreed to delete the phrase "group of systems" from para. 4, since the sense of the phrase was impossible to define.

5. Cross-references to the U.S. draft Appendices : then turned attention away from the Sub-Committee B minutes to the draft Appendices themselves, and the question was raised as to whether the draft Appendices should be tabled. This produced general discussion. Sir Edward pointed out that, in the first place, the British members of the Executive Committee had not had time to study the Appendices, and he therefore did not at this point wish to be asked for opinions based upon them. General Cordeman stressed that the Executive Committee should not be required to table them at this stage, and that it was the duty of the Sub-Committees to make clear statements as to whether they were found suitable or were not so found; only those which were controversial should be brought before the Executive Committee for modification, and the modifications should be embodied in the Sub-Committees' final recommendations.

The Chairman then directed the Secretaries to instruct the Sub-Committees that elaborate cross-references in interim reports to the U.S. draft Appendices would no longer be acceptable to the Executive Committee. In the meanwhile, the Appendices will be used only by the Sub-Committees as a guide toward their final recommendations.

/The Chairman ...

6. The Chairman then resumed the reading. Some discussion arose re para. 5, and it was agreed to delete the parenthetical expression from it.

Considerable discussion was generated by the various sub-headings of para. 6. Sir Edward pointed out that item 5 of sub-heading C was so phrased as to impinge upon the prerogatives of the T/A Section, or, on the other hand, to swamp the cryptanalytic reports with T/A data. The Chairman asked Brigadier Tiltman to clarify the nature of the Interim Reports, and it was then agreed to leave the matter for the time being. Reference sub-heading H, the question was raised as to the dissemination of the Reports, to which Brigadier Tiltman replied that it was planned to cut up the Reports and deliver only the pertinent portions to sections concerned. General Corderman approved of the plan, and added that universal and uncontrolled dissemination of Reports would not be suitable to the U.S. delegation. He stressed that, for example, the monthly crypt-analytic Reports originating with U.S. agencies should not go to the Dominions SIGINT Centres in full. Considerable discussion of the control of cryptanalytic data reports here ensued, and it was generally agreed that the subject was a broad one which must come up again for further discussion. The Chairman directed the Secretaries to put it down on the special agenda of the Executive Committee.

Regarding para. 12, it was agreed to discuss this point later, after recommendations had come in from Sub-Committee A. The Secretary informed the Chairman that, anticipating such a juncture, he had already passed Colonel Roslett's note to the Chairman of Sub-Committee A. This was approved.

7. The reading of the minutes of Sub-Committee B terminated here, and discussion again broke out over the relationship between the Sub-Committee reports and the U.S. draft Appendices. Commander Lechin began to make a rough draft of an order which might embody the idea earlier expressed by General Corderman to the effect that proposed modifications of the Appendices should be contained only in final recommendations of the Sub-Committees and not in the form of minutes wherein no conclusions upon which the Executive Committee could set to work were yet reached.

The Chairman, however, made the objection that such a move might in the long run be a greater waste of time; his reasoning being that the SubCommittees might spend days constructing recommendations on a basic misconception of which the Executive Committee would have no knowledge.

Captain Wenger added the objection that there would be too much for the Executive Committee to accomplish in the very last days and too little in the meantime.

Sir Edward also concurred, and stated that it was the duty of the Executive Committee to help the SubCommittees all along the line.

It was finally agreed that the U.S. draft Appendices were to be regarded as a basis for discussion by the SubCommittees, and that they need not be considered by the Executive Committee until such time as they appeared in the form of final SubCommittee recommendations.

8. Following this, the Chairman read the minutes of Sub-Committee D, which were approved without discussion.

9. He then began to read the minutes of Sub-Committee E. Sir Edward asked that para. 3, page 2, which might be misunderstood by the Admiralty, be deleted. This was agreed. General Corderman observed that the figures in para. 6(b) were probably too high, and it was agreed to cut the total down to 100,000.

10. Sir Edward opened discussion on the question of whether the recommendations attached to the minutes of Sub-Committee II were to be eventually embodied in an Appendix; he pointed out that the channels and figures of these recommendations were provisional and subject to much modification in time; whereas the Appendices he regarded as lasting documents which should not include communications-network estimates and other such variables. The American delegates demurred, feeling that adequate communications were basic to the future of SPANIB - CCOB relationships, and, as such, should be specifically written into the Agreement.

General Cordemans insisted that the statement "a Washington-London link will be maintained", or some similar phrase, be inserted.

Sir Edward replied that he couldn't vouch for its implementation and that it would have to be reviewed from time to time by the Ministries. General Cordemans said that financial considerations applied equally on both sides, but that the conference must assure that they would be met. After some discussion, Sir Edward withdrew his objection, and General Cordemans suggested that communications provisions be written into the Anglo-American Agreement as they had been written in to the Anglo-Dominican Agreement.

Subject to the above discussions, the recommendations outlined in the minutes of Sub-Committee II were approved.

The meeting was adjourned at 1745, and the following meeting was fixed for 1015 the next day.

TOP SECRET - COMINT

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

CONFIRMED
MINUTES OF THIRD MEETING OF EXECUTIVE
COMMITTEE HELD AT ARLS, MARCH 15th, 1946.

Present: Captain Hastings, (Chairman)
Brigadier General Gorderman, Sir Edward Travis,
Captain Wenger, Cmdr. Loehlin,
Captain Smudberg,
Colonel Hooker, Mr. Haddleson,
Mr. Gimpeiman, Commander Mason,
Mr. Hinsley, Secretaries.

AGENDA: Consideration of Minutes of First Meeting of Sub-Committee C.

1. Sir Edward Travis referring to the first paragraph of Section 2 of the Minutes of the First Meeting of Sub-Committee C, said that it would be preferable to avoid the word "demand" in the final version of the recommendations, as the word indicated too peremptory a form of communication.
2. He also said that this was a good opportunity to take note that there might be occasions when the sheer process of copying became too burdensome and when requests could not be met either immediately or even at all. He hoped that liaison officers would always be in a position to appreciate the difficulties on these occasions and be able to explain them to the agencies originating the requests.
3. With reference to para 2 of the second section of the Minutes, on the subject of comments, Sir Edward Travis pointed out that this was British practice at present and that agreement on this point would simply mean that the U.S. would receive the same documents as those sent to British customers.
4. Brigadier General Gorderman explained that A.S.A. made comments on telegrams and in papers less frequently than CP-20-C but he saw no objection to the sub-committee's suggestion concerning comments.
5. On the third para of Section 2 of the Sub-Committee Minutes, both Brigadier General Gorderman and Sir Edward Travis confirmed that there would be complete freedom of exchange. Such practical considerations as the fact that not all traffic is translated or that not all translations need to be exchanged could be met by making everything available to the liaison officers.

6. Para 4 of Section 2 of the Minutes was considered satisfactory.

7. Para 5 of Section 2 concerning summaries led to considerable discussion, with general reference to collateral material.

8. Sir Edward Travis suggested that the inclusion of "nonexchangeable" collateral information in summaries would be very infrequent.

9. Brigadier General Cardenas suggested that, in this case, it would be preferable to decide that "nonexchangeable" collateral should never be included in summaries.

10. Sir Edward Travis while agreeing that this might be the best solution, considered that the matter needed further investigation and asked if he could raise it again at the next meeting. This was agreed.

11. Further discussion on the subject of collateral was raised by Section 3 of the Minutes and by the U.S. Appendix B which was referred to in this Section. Sir Edward Travis considered that there was some confusion in the interpretation of the Agreement with reference to three separate subjects:

(a) The exchange of collateral material:

This was adequately dealt with by para 2 of the Basic Agreement.

(b) The exchange of material, information and machinery acquired through third party sources and bearing directly on foreign communications:

This was regulated by para 3 (a) (2) and (3) of the Basic Agreement and it was a mistake to regard this as collateral material, as it was regarded in part 1 of the U.S. Draft Appendix B.

(c) The exchange of machinery and other techniques developed in either the U.S. and the U.K. or of information bearing on such machinery and techniques:

This was covered by para 4 of the Basic Agreement.

12. Captain Wenger then described the difficulties that might arise in extending to the U.K. knowledge of, or the right to use, techniques developed under patent in the U.S.

13. Sir Edward Travis fully appreciated these difficulties but said that, in his view, they arose only under item (c) of para 13 above and were adequately met by the restrictions contained in para 4 of the Basic Agreement concerning methods and techniques.

14. Brigadier General Cardenas agreed that this point was covered by para 4 of the Agreement.

15. Sir Edward Travis suggested that, to meet such difficulties, an arrangement might be made by which British non-technical experts were made aware of the purpose and method of operation of a technique which was developed under U.S. patent, in order to ensure that the technique was used to the maximum advantage, without the necessity of releasing technical details to the U.S.

16. Brigadier General Jordan agreed that this would be a practicable solution to the difficulty.

17. Sir Edward Travis then referred to the points made in para. 11 above and Davis's reply, agreeing with Sir Edward's division of the problem into three different subjects, suggested that the first part of draft Appendix B could be more appropriately included in para. 5 of draft Appendix B, which dealt with the exchange of methods and techniques and which modified para. 4 of the basic agreement.

18. Sir Edward Travis agreed with this suggestion as it conformed with his view that the subject of part 2 of draft Appendix B could not be considered as collateral material.

19. Brigadier General Jordan, however, stated that the subject of part 2 of draft Appendix B was considered collateral material in the U.K.

20. Sir Edward Travis pointed out that, for nothing in para. 2 of the basic agreement, and the discussion of this subject which had taken place in Washington, seemed collated as essential not dealing with the exchange of methods and techniques. If material bore directly on foreign communications, as in part 1 of draft Appendix B, it should not be considered collateral material.

21. It was agreed at this point that some definition of collateral material was necessary to cover the above discussion and the Secretaries were instructed to prepare a draft attachment for the Committee.

22. The next meeting of the Executive Committee was arranged for 1945 on Tuesday, 27th March.

MINUTES OF THE SECOND AND THIRD MEETINGS.

1. These were discussed and several modifications adopted. Confirmed Minutes have now been issued.

INCLUSION OF UNEXCHANGEABLE COLLATERAL MATERIAL IN SUMMARIES.

2. With reference to paras 9 and 10 of the Minutes of the Third Meeting, Sir Edward Travis reported that he had considered this matter since the last Meeting and was in full agreement with General Corderman's suggestion that "unexchangeable" collateral material should not be included in summaries. If it was necessary for a Centre to refer its own customers to "unexchangeable" collateral, this should be done in papers separate from the summaries and given a more restricted circulation.

3. The Secretaries were instructed to notify the Chairman of Sub-committee 1 that the recommendations of his Sub-committee should be modified in accordance with para 2 above.

DEFINITION OF COLLATERAL MATERIAL.

4. Subject to one minor change, the definition was approved as tabled. It is given in its final form as Appendix 1 to these Minutes.

5. Captain Smedberg considered that it was important that this definition should go down on record. This was agreed and it was left to later decision whether it should appear in a list of other definitions or in the recommendations of Sub-committee C.

6. The Secretaries were instructed to notify the Chairman of Sub-committee C of the definition as approved, in answer to para 1 of the Minutes of the Second Meeting of Sub-committee C.

REFERENCE TO DRAFT U.S. APPENDICES.

7. Arising out of the discussion of previous minutes, the Secretaries were instructed to inform the Chairman of all Sub-committees that references to the U.S. draft Appendices should always include the word "draft" in order to avoid confusion.

(NOTE: This has been done in S/EC/1 of 20th March which is attached.)

MINUTES OF 2nd AND 3rd MEETINGS OF SUBCOMMITTEE C.

8. The Minutes of the 2nd Meeting were noted.

Standardised Translation Format.

With reference to para 9 (a) of the Minutes of the Third Meeting, Sir Edward Travis suggested that a proposed standardised translation format should be drawn up by the British during the Conference, instead of being drawn up afterwards and forwarded to STANCIB at a later date. General Corderman agreed but made it clear that the U.S. delegation would have to take such a proposal back to the States for discussion with Technical specialists concerned, before it was finally agreed.

10. The Secretaries were instructed to inform the Chairman of Sub-committee C to this effect.

11. With reference to para 12 (d) it was agreed that the word "instructed" should be altered to read "required."

Exchange of Dictionaries.

With reference to para 12 (c) it was agreed that this should be changed to read:

"Collaboration in the preparation of any dictionaries and the exchange of such dictionaries in their completed form."

The Secretaries were instructed to notify Sub-committee C of this change.

Standardisation in Translation.

Referring to para 12 (d), Captain Wenger questioned whether this solution would be adequate, as it did not establish which authority would be ultimately responsible for the standardisation of translations in the event of differences of opinion between London and Washington. He suggested that this could be achieved without making any one Centre the final arbiter in all fields. One Centre could be established as the final authority in one field, and another in another, according to the translators and experience available.

14. General Corderman agreed that it would be advisable to clarify the question of ultimate authority in cases of deadlock but considered that it would be impracticable to make one Centre responsible in all fields. He suggested that the arbiter in each language or problem would be one or the other Centre as mutually agreed.

15. Colonel Rowlett was invited to attend the Committee at this stage and gave it as his opinion that it was necessary to establish a centralising section for this purpose in the U.S. He also considered that it would be unwise to make either the U.S. or the U.K. ultimately responsible in all fields but thought that this matter would work itself out if a centralised section was established in the U.S.A.

16. General Corderman confirmed that a group under STANCIB would be made responsible for centralising the standardisation of translation in the U.S.A. and it was agreed that direct liaison between that group and that of Commander Tandy would ensure that Captain Wenger's original point was met.

17. During this discussion, Sir Edward Travis raised the question of standardising recovery on book group equivalents, but it was agreed that this was a matter for settlement by close liaison in cryptanalysis and Colonel Rowlett thought there would be no difficulty in effecting the necessary standardisation.

RECOMMENDATIONS OF SUB-COMMITTEE 'A' ON ITEM 6 OF ITS AGENDA
(STANDARDISED DESIGNATION OF INTERCEPT TARGETS)

18. Sir Edward Travis pointed out that [redacted] had been omitted in the list of bigrams given by the Sub-Committee in Appendix I.

19. Colonel Rowlett said that the list used by Sub-Committee A was identical with that prepared by Sub-Committee B and that [redacted] had been omitted deliberately because it was U.S. practice to refer to this task only in special correspondence. Sir Edward Travis explained that it was the practice in the U.K. to treat it normally, together with all other tasks, and it was agreed that, at least for the purposes of this list, it should be so treated. The Secretaries were therefore instructed to inform Sub-Committees A and B that a bigram for [redacted] should be included in the lists and to inform Sub-Committee A that, subject to this change, its recommendations were approved.

20. Captain Smedberg enquired whether the dissemination of [redacted] was not specially restricted in the U.K., in view of the above remarks. Commander Loehris replied that the dissemination was specially restricted and that [redacted] would in future be issued as "TOP SECRET SPECIAL CREAM".

COMPLETE RECOMMENDATIONS OF SUB-COMMITTEE B.

21. These were discussed at length and several modifications agreed which will be included in the final version. In particular the discussion covered:-

- (a) The frequent references to paras. 3 and 4 of the Basic Agreement: It was decided that such references were unnecessary in Sub-Committee recommendations, as this point would be covered by a general statement prefacing the final recommendations of the Conferences, to the effect that nothing in the draft Appendices to the Basic Agreement shall be construed as contravening any clauses of that Agreement.

/(b)

- (b) Whether compilation of the Monthly Status Reports should be according to the status of the tasks (i.e. solved, partly solved and under research) or according to alphabetical list by system.
It was agreed that in the first instance the compilation of these reports should be as recommended by Sub-Committee B, except that a notation system should be introduced to indicate at a glance the status of each task.
- (c) Attachment A of the Recommendations:
Colonel Rowlett was requested to arrange for the production of revised figures and to ensure that they were on a comparable basis as regards the U.S. and the U.K.

22. The Secretaries were instructed to make available to the Chairman and Secretary of Sub-Committee B all details of changes made to the recommendations in order that the final version could be prepared.

PRIORITIES

23. Sir Edward Travis noted that the general problem of priorities was nowhere being discussed. The Committee considered it was essential that arrangements should exist by which each Centre should keep the other informed of changes in priorities and it was agreed that agreement on this point should be included in the general statement preparing the final recommendations of the Conference.

RECOMMENDATIONS OF SUB-COMMITTEE C ON ITEM 2 OF ITS AGENDA.

24. Considerable discussion took place concerning the definition of terms at the beginning of these recommendations, and many changes were made in principle and detail. Mr. Huddleson was deputed to explain these changes to Sub-Committee C in order that the final version of these terms could be prepared.

25. Discussion of the remainder of the paper was postponed till 1015 on Thursday, 21st March.

UNEXCHANGEABLE COLLATERAL MATERIAL.

26. Sir Edward Travis said he would like to revert to this subject and made the suggestion that, as it had been agreed that unexchangeable collateral material must be omitted from documents exchanged, the insertion, at discretion, of the comment:-

"This is confirmed from other sources"

might be valuable to the other Centre as an indication that collateral of value existed. The receiving Centre could interpret this comment as a hint to probe no further into the sources.

27. This suggestion was agreed.

EVALUATED INTELLIGENCE AND INFORMATION FROM COMINT SOURCES.

29. Captain Wenger mentioned the distinction drawn in the U.S.A. between "information" and "intelligence" and between "interpretation" and "evaluation", the former being the duty of the COMINT Centres and the latter of Intelligence Staffs. He considered that this Conference provided a suitable opportunity to invent new terms for the product and the functions of COMINT Centres, and so prevent confusion on this matter in the future.

30. The Chairman said that an exactly similar distinction existed in the U.K., though the nomenclature was different.

31. Sir Edward Travis said that "information" was called "factual intelligence" in the U.K., but he agreed that this expression was open to criticism.

32. It was agreed, therefore, that this matter should be discussed by the Executive Committee at a later date.

SECURITY REGULATIONS.

33. It was agreed that the recommendations of Sub-Committee D would have to be postponed until the next meeting, but General Corderman and Captain Wenger stressed the need for the addition of clauses which covered:

- (a) the procedure by which U.S. personnel would be allowed access to British Comint Centres, and vice versa, and
- (b) the dissemination by U.S. authorities of Communication Intelligence to British personnel, and vice versa.

34. Mr Huddleson and Commander Lochnig were requested to draft a clause which would cover these points and which could be added to the recommendations of Sub-Committee D.

Г	И	В

The Executive Committee has directed that any references in the Minutes of Sub-Committee meetings made to the U.S. draft appendices, should specifically include the word "draft" in order to avoid confusion with the final versions which are now in course of production.

Joint Secretary,
Executive Committee.

DEFINITION OF COLLATERAL MATERIAL.

1. Para. 2 of the British - U.S. Communication Intelligence Agreement specifies that the Agreement governs the relations of the contracting parties "in Communication Intelligence matters only".
2. In the same paragraph it is agreed that the exchange of such collateral material as is applicable for technical purposes and is not prejudicial to national interests will, however, be affected between the COMINT Centres in both countries.
3. In accordance with this paragraph, collateral material is defined as that material from any source other than COMINT which, though of assistance to the COMINT Centres (i.e. "applicable for technical purposes") is not directly a Communication Intelligence matter.
4. Consequently, material listed in para. 3(a) (2) and (6) of the Agreement, though obtained from sources other than Communication Intelligence is not collateral material because it is directly a Communication Intelligence matter. The exchange of such material will be unrestricted, except as provided in para. 5(b) of the Agreement.
5. Similarly, information concerning COMINT methods and techniques, which are developed by the COMINT Centres under U.S. or British patents, is not collateral material, and its exchange is governed by para. 4 of the Agreement.

Recommendations of Sub Committee C on Item 2 of its Agenda

1. These recommendations were discussed and considerable changes made. The Secretaries were instructed to produce the revised recommendations in collaboration with Sub Committee C.

2. During the discussion, it was agreed that a definition of 'COMINT item' was necessary. A suggestion from Mr. Huddleson was accepted, reading as follows:

"Comint items shall be understood to include the following items produced by Comint Centres, plain texts, translated texts, extracts, gifts, 'Sunkets' and decrypts which serve Intelligence needs."

(Note: This was changed at the 6th Meeting)

3. The Secretaries were instructed to include this definition in an appropriate place in the final recommendations of the Conference.

Recommendations of Sub Committee D

4. These were approved subject to:

(a) Rewording in para. 8

(b) An addition to para. 12, to be discussed at the next meeting.

(c) Other minor changes.

5. The Secretaries, in collaboration with Sub Committee D, were instructed to prepare the final version, which should include a security principle recommended by Sub Committee E.

Recommendation of Sub Committee C on Item 1 of its Agenda

6. This was approved, subject to minor changes in drafting, and the Secretaries were instructed to prepare the final version in collaboration with Sub Committee C.

Recommendations of Sub Committee E

7. The Secretaries were instructed to include the substance of para one of the Sub Committee's paper in the general paper which would preface the final Appendices drawn up by the Conference.

8. It was agreed that para 2(i) of the recommendations should be inserted in the recommendations of Sub Committee D and removed from the Appendix on Communications.

9. With reference to para 2(d)(iii) of the recommendations, Sir Edward Travis said that a signal had been made to Australia asking for approval for Commander Newman to go back to Washington with Captain Wenger in order to investigate the establishment of the Melbourne - Honolulu circuit.

10. The Secretaries were instructed to inform Sub Committee E that recommendation 2(n) was not acceptable in its present form. They required rewording in a form which made it clear that micro-film was not the normal method, but should be used on some occasions.

TOP SECRET - COMINT

CONFIRMED
MINUTES OF THE SIXTH MEETING OF THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE, HELD AT 1015, MARCH 2ND, 1946

Present:

Captain E.G. Hastings, R.N., (Chairman)
Brigadier General Corderman	Sir Edward Travis
Captain Wenger	Commander Lochuis
Captain Smedberg	(Secretaries)
Mr. Huddleson	Commander Mangon
Mr. Cimperman	Mr. Hinsley

DISCUSSION WITH SUB-COMMITTEE 'E'

1. The Chairman and members of Sub-Committee 'E' were invited to attend the meeting to discuss the recommendations of the Sub-Committee on the subject of the use of microfilm.
2. Captain Howeth explained that, in the view of his Sub-Committee, copies of original documents and papers should be sent whenever possible, but that, when this was not practicable, the use of microfilm was essential to ensure the best use of facilities. It was therefore necessary that each Centre should be equipped to handle microfilm.
3. After some discussion, the following rewording of the Sub-Committee's original recommendation was approved:

"All Centres will be equipped to handle microfilm, so that it may be available when it is not practicable to send the original material."
4. A revised wording of the Recommendations (a) and (b) of the Sub-Committee was also tabled and approved. This reads as follows:

"That, except for certain D/V requirements, provision be made for exclusive tone-type telecommunications between Centres and between Centres and their outlying intercept stations. This is considered necessary in order to make possible the rapid flow of raw material from the point of interception to the several Centres and in order to allow efficient control of cover with consequent reduction in wasteful duplication; as well as for rapid exchange of raw material and information between Centres."
5. Captain Wenger said that he would like to report on his meeting with D.S.D., Admiralty, while Sub-Committee 'E' were present. With reference to the proposal that Admiralty should take over the existing U.S.N. Londonderry station, some channels of which are desired for Communication Intelligence purposes, D.S.D. had said that he can do nothing until he receives official support from this Conference.

6. Sir Edward Travis said this point would be covered if special attention were invited, in the covering remarks of the final recommendations of the Conference, to the importance of Communications for COMINT purposes. He would see that these remarks were brought before the London SIGINT Board.

7. At this point Sub-Committee 'E' left the Meeting.

MINUTES OF THE FOURTH MEETING

8. General Corderman asked for the insertion of an additional phrase in para. 9 and Mr. Huddleson suggested changes in paras. 15 and 16. These and other small modifications were approved.
9. With reference to para. 22(b), some discussion took place as to the categories to be used for indicating the status of tasks. The Secretaries reported that Sub-Committee 'B', in rewriting its recommendations, had accepted the following categories, note of which would be included against each task in monthly status reports:
- (a) unsolved, not under research
 - (b) unsolved, under research
 - (c) partially solved
 - (d) solved (currently readable).
- These categories were approved.
10. The Secretaries were instructed to notify the Chairmen of Sub-Committees:
- (a) that, in future, reference should always be made to COMINT Centres and not to COMINT Agencies.
 - and (b) that, in future, reference should always be made to COMINT, and not to C.I.

(Note: This has been done in S/EC/2 which is attached).

MINUTES OF FIFTH MEETING

11. Mr. Huddleson queried his definition of COMINT items given in para. 2, on the grounds that it took no account of Traffic Intelligence. A revised definition was therefore considered and will be included in the final recommendation.
12. The Chairman reported that the term SUMINT was considered unsatisfactory by the Sub-Committee concerned, as it would be easily confused with other expressions in common use, such as COMINT, SIGINT. It was therefore decided to adopt the term COMINTSUM instead.
13. With the above exception, the Minutes of the Fifth Meeting were approved.

PARA. 12 OF THE RECOMMENDATIONS OF SUB-COMMITTEE 'D'

14. After considerable discussion, Colonel Heckemeyer was requested to redraft the suggested addition to para. 12 which had been tabled.

(Note: At the end of the meeting Colonel Heckemeyer read out a draft which was approved and will be incorporated in the recommendations of Sub-Committee 'D'.)

RECOMMENDATIONS OF SUB-COMMITTEE 'C' ON ITEM 3 OF ITS AGENDA

15. General Corderman, with reference to para. 3 of the paper, considered that the recommendation was inadequate and that standardisation should be effected as soon as possible. It was therefore agreed the following should be substituted:

"To that end, the London Centre will prepare a proposed translation style and layout which will be introduced, with such modifications as are necessary, as soon as it has been considered by the U.S. technical specialists concerned."

16. It was also agreed that this proposed style and layout should be drawn up before the departure of the U.S. delegates.
17. Other changes in drafting were made to paras. 4, 5 and 6 of the paper, which was otherwise approved.

RECOMMENDATIONS OF SUB-COMMITTEE 'A' ON ITEM 2 OF ITS AGENDA

18. Minor changes in drafting were made and the paper was approved, subject to these changes.

RECOMMENDATIONS OF SUB-COMMITTEE 'A' ON ITEM 1 OF ITS AGENDA

19. Sir Edward Travis queried whether it was really impracticable to make a division of interception and other tasks. In his view, the conference was being entirely successful in establishing methods of collaboration, but not of integration. The methods proposed were not such as to reduce the commitment of each Centre but likely to increase them.
20. General Corderman agreed that the arrangements being made were adding to the burdens of each party and said he was disturbed by this. On the other hand, he did not feel that a division of tasks could be attempted until communications were adequate to ensure that each Centre received results as quickly from tasks done at other Centres as it did from its own production commitments.
21. Sir Edward Travis agreed to this but said that this point was nowhere clearly stated in the paper under discussion or in the recommendations on Cryptanalysis. These latter had also assumed that the division of tasks was impracticable, without stating the reason for this assumption.
22. General Corderman repeated his view that when communications were provided, all possible division of tasks, both in interception and cryptanalysis, should be effected.
23. The Chairman then suggested that preliminary agreement on the division of tasks should be attempted now, in readiness for the time when communications made the division possible. Some indication of the saving of personnel that would be achieved by division of labour when communications allowed would be a valuable argument in favour of the early provision of the necessary communications.
24. Sir Edward Travis strongly supported this point and General Corderman agreed that the problem of division of tasks should be given some attention during the present conference.
25. It was then decided that General Corderman, Sir Edward Travis, Captain Wenger and the Chairman should hold further discussions on this subject with the necessary technicians on or after Tuesday 26th.

26. In view of the above discussion it was agreed that the first sentence of the paper from Sub-Committee 'A' should be modified to read:

"Specific allocation of interception tasks and of search programmes is impracticable until adequate communications are established."

27. Considerable discussion also took place concerning the exchange of "Intercept Plans", but it was finally agreed to make no change and to approve the paper, subject to the modification in para. 26.

RECOMMENDATIONS OF SUB-COMMITTEE 'A' ON ITEM 5

28. This recommendation was approved.

EXCHANGE OF INFORMATION ON PRIORITIES

29. Discussion took place concerning the difficulties met by both parties in establishing priorities in collaboration with user departments.
30. It was then agreed that no special procedure could be established for keeping each other informed of the state of priorities.
31. General Corderman said that, in his view, the complete understanding which we had reached of each other's situation and capabilities was sufficient to ensure mutual assistance on priorities tasks. He hoped that London would continue to assist the Washington Centre in any particular problem on request, as it had done in the past, and that London would similarly call upon Washington in cases of necessity.

DISCUSSION OF TERMS FOR THE PRODUCT AND FUNCTIONS OF COMINT CENTRES

32. Captain Wenger enlarged upon his previous remarks concerning the difference between evaluation and interpretation, with special reference to the jurisdictional difficulties associated with this question.
33. Captain Smedberg and Mr. Huddleson agreed with Captain Wenger's point of view but considered that no further discussion at this present conference would be of use.
34. Sir Edward Travis said that, disguised under whatever terms the produce of Communications Intelligence was Intelligence.
35. It was therefore agreed not to pursue this subject.

ANY OTHER BUSINESS

36. Captain Smedberg asked for the inclusion on a future Agenda of the question of whether might be allowed the use of certain Special Intelligence. It was agreed to take this at the next meeting.

OUTSTANDING WORK

37. The Secretary gave a resume of outstanding items to be considered by the Committee.

RECOMMENDATIONS OF SUB-COMMITTEE A.

6. With reference to the exchange of all raw material, General Gordenman asked whether it was necessary to specify that material would be withheld, upon notification to the other party, if the subject or circumstances made it prejudicial to national interests. He said that he did not wish for this to be stipulated, as it was fully covered by the Basic Agreement.

It was decided, therefore, not to include any qualification in this recommendation.

7. A discussion took place at this point concerning the restrictions hitherto imposed on the exchange of Terminal traffic.

It was agreed that these could now cease, as they were superseded by the procedure established in paragraph 3 of the Basic Agreement. It was agreed also that a definite date for ending the present restriction system would be negotiated in the near future, and Sir Edward Travis undertook to telegraph STANGLIE on this point after discussing with the Foreign Office.

8. With reference to the General Gordenman pointed out that paragraph 3 of Sub-Committee A's item 10 implied that Washington could ask Melbourne Direct for D/F assistance. Sir Edward Travis agreed that this would be acceptable, but he thought that direct relations with the should be built up slowly.

9. It was agreed that both parties would refer to R.R.B. (R.R.B.) in future and that the short title R.R.B. will be abandoned.

10. Item 11 of the Committee A's recommendations were next considered and it was agreed that the exchange of Traffic Intelligence would be adequately covered by the Cini papers being prepared by Sub-Committee C concerning the exchange of COMINT items.

11. Item 12 from Sub-Committee A was considered, but the suggestion contained therein was rejected and the Secretary was instructed to ask Sub-Committee A to write a separate paper on the subject of collaboration in Traffic Analysis.

12. Item 3 concerning Standardization of raw material format was also discussed and approved.

LIAISON.

13. With reference to item 9 of the recommendation for Sub-Committee A paragraph (a) it was agreed to delete the suggestions concerning direct liaison between Washington and Melbourne, as General Gordenman, Captain Gomer and Sir Edward Travis confirmed that it would be inadvisable for direct working to take place between Washington and British Commonwealth overseas Ciphers excepting Ottawa. All such matters should be handled through London.

14. General Gordenman doubted whether liaison officers were necessary specifically for R.R.B. purposes. He thought that one liaison officer might be able to handle cryptanalytical, T.A. and translation matters. He was sure that personnel would not be available in sufficient numbers to enable many liaison officers to be maintained.

15. The discussion then passed to consideration of the U.S. draft Appendix 1. This was modified to some extent, and it was agreed that the modified version should be used as the final Appendix on the subject of "Liaison and Channels for Exchange". Recommendations from Sub-Committees A and B on this subject were considered to be covered by the U.S. draft Appendix 1.

16. In connection with the U.S. draft Appendix 1, Sir Edward Travis pointed out that restrictions on British personnel in Washington would probably mean that the London Signal Board would have to establish reciprocal restrictions on U.S. personnel attached to the London Signal Centre. General Corderyman and Captain Snedberg said that the inevitability of this was fully appreciated.

17. With reference to paragraph 4 of the draft Appendix, General Corderyman explained that in the U.S. view every arrangement should be direct with the Group and by liaison officers but that technical details may thereafter be arranged direct between the operating personnel concerned. Sir Edward Travis agreed with this method.

18. General Corderyman also said that his delegation wished to establish as a general principle the fact that the requesting party would be responsible for providing the means of transport for material supplied by the other Centre.

FINAL DRAFT OF APPENDICES B, D and G.

19. Appendices B and D were considered and it was approved that they could now be issued in final form.

20. Appendix G was also considered and it was agreed that the final form could be issued after consideration by General Corderyman, Captain Wenger and Sir Edward Travis. The Secretary was instructed to provide them with copies of his remarks as soon as possible.

DRAFT COVERING LETTER.

21. A draft covering paper was considered and modified in many respects. The two secretaries were instructed to table the revised draft at the next meeting.

FUTURE PROCEDURE.

22. The Secretaries were also instructed to draft a covering letter to the Chairman of SMWSD and the Chairman of the London Signal Board, to be signed by the Chairman of the Conference, General Corderyman and Sir Edward Travis.

23. It was then agreed that STANCIS and the London Signal Board would notify each other, by letter, of approval being given to the recommendations of the Conference.

EXECUTIVE CITEE.

CONFIRMED
MINUTES OF EIGHTH AND FINAL MEETING
OF THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

held at 1015 on Wednesday, March 27th, 1946.

P R E S E N T:

	Captain E. Hastings Chairman.
Brigadier General Corderman		Sir Edward Travis
Captain Wenger		Commander Loehnis
Captain Smedburg
Mr. Huddleson		(Secretaries)
Mr. Cimperman		Commander Manson
		Mr. Hinsley.

MINUTES OF SEVENTH MEETING.

1. With reference to para. 1 of the draft minutes, Mr. Huddleson asked whether the recommendation should include a statement on the measurement of the microfilm to be used uniformly by both Centres. This point was discussed and it was agreed to make no change in the recommendation. It was agreed, however, that both parties would investigate the equipment at present in use and correspond in the near future with a view to using equipment of uniform size.

2. A few minor alterations were made to the draft Minutes, which were then approved.

APPENDIX E.

3. The Committee next considered the new paragraphs and the additional Exhibit 4 of Appendix E, and Brigadier Tiltman and Colonel Rowlett were called in at this point.

4. General Corderman expressed the view that a more definite statement than that given in Exhibit 4 would be advisable. Some initiative had to be taken in effecting a division of tasks and the COMINT Centres themselves were best placed to take the first steps. Sir Edward Travis agreed with this view.

5. Brigadier Tiltman said that a more definite statement would necessitate the omission of paras. 3 (b) and (c) of Exhibit 4 concerning division of tasks on Nothing definite could be agreed on these points without further study. Moreover, better fields for the allocation of tasks might be found when this study was carried out.

6. General Corderman and Sir Edward Travis both considered that it was an urgent requirement that the necessary investigation should be carried out at both Centres, and views exchanged as to tasks which should be left to one or the other Centre.

7. Brigadier Tiltman said there were research tasks in which division by allocation was not desirable as two heads were better than one. General Corderman however, said that this would not be true in circumstances when available personnel in either Centre were inadequate to do all the necessary research, although he agreed that the allocation of tasks would have to proceed slowly.

/when.....

8. Colonel Rowlett said he was sure that by the time 2 monthly status reports had been exchanged, a considerable economy of personnel would have been effected.

9. In view of the above discussion, it was agreed that (a) the two Centres would undertake the necessary investigation of tasks which would be undertaken solely by one Centre or the other, effecting division of labour in this way as early as practicable, but that (b) Exhibit 4 should be omitted from the Appendix.

10. A small drafting change was made in para.1 of the Appendix, which was then approved.

COVERING PAPER

11. Sir Edward Travis said he thought that some mention should be made in the covering remarks to the effect that the undertaking to exchange copies of all intercepts could not come into force at once, but would, in fact, take some time to arrange.

12. General Cordexman, however, gave it as his view that most of the arrangements were subject to this reservation and he considered that it was not necessary to refer specially to the exchange of raw material in this connection.

13. Sir Edward Travis, in view of this, agreed to withdraw his suggestion.

COVERING LETTER

14. A draft was discussed and the Secretary was instructed to have a new version prepared.

Secretaries:

Commander G.C. Manson

Mr. F.H. Binsley

1. The Chairman asked for any remarks on the final draft of the Covering Paper and Appendices prepared by the Conference.
2. General Gorderman, for the U.S. Delegation, and Captain Wenger, Mr. Riddleson and Mr. Cimperman, for their various Departments, expressed their approval of the papers.
3. Sir Edward Travis concurred on behalf of the British representatives.
4. The Chairman expressed his thanks to the assembled meeting, especially to the Chairmen of Sub-Committees, for their participation in discussions which had led to such important agreements between the two countries.
5. Sir Edward Travis thanked his U.S. colleagues for coming to London for the Conference. He felt certain that the Conference had not been held too soon. The highly satisfactory arrangements made at a time when each party's domestic situation was in a state of flux would ensure that steps taken from now on in each country would be in line with the agreements now reached and would further strengthen the collaboration which was so firmly established.

TOP SECRET CREAM

He wished to express his thanks especially to the Chairman and Members of Sub-Committees and, in conclusion, he wished godspeed and good luck in the future to all members of the U.S. Delegation.

6. General Gordenau said he shared Sir Edward's views concerning the timeliness of the meetings. He felt that a great deal had been accomplished. It only because the COMINT representatives of the two countries had got together to settle things which had previously not been fully investigated, a great step forward had been made.

The fruits of the work completed at the Conference might not be seen immediately but no-one could doubt that, from a long-term point-of-view, the recent meetings were an important stage in U.S.-British relations in general and in U.S.-British Communications Intelligence co-operation.

He thanked the British delegates for the cordial reception given to every U.S. visitor, the Chairman for the splendid way in which he had handled the Conference, the Chairman of Sub-Committees for their work, and then the Secretariat for its consistent hard work and attention to the arrangements.

Finally, he looked forward to a similar conference in Washington and extended a welcome to British delegates in advance.

7. The Chairman then announced that the recommendations of the Conference would be forwarded to the Chairman, STARCIB and to the Chairman, London SIGINT Board for approval, and the meeting adjourned.
